Ardacious and Tilt Five announce new partnership bringing Ardent Roleplay
Augmented Reality for Tabletop Roleplaying Games to Tilt Five

Fans will be able to play fully immersive TTRPGs with augmented reality miniatures

Brisbane, Queensland, June 8th, 2022 - Australian game development company Ardacious Pty Ltd, has signed a partnership with Tilt Five to bring Tabletop RPGs to their award winning augmented reality headset technology.

Fans will be able to experience tabletop roleplaying games with immersive virtual miniatures of animated settings, characters, creatures and interactable objects on the Tilt Five system via Ardent Roleplay. Game masters want to create memorable experiences that their players talk about after the sessions, and the immersive effects of augmented reality deliver on that.

Ardacious is the team behind the augmented reality app, and CEO Ralf Muhlberger says TTRPG fans have access to tools today that enhance gameplay for both Players and Game Masters face-to-face and playing online.

“Ardent Roleplay is the only solution on the market that brings the 3D miniatures on the table experience to everyone, with vibrant and dynamic models that can be personalised for every player,” he says.

Jeri Ellsworth, Tilt Five CEO said they’re excited to have their headset supported by Ardent Roleplay.

“We love what the Ardent Roleplay team are doing to bring Augmented Reality to roleplaying games and we are delighted to have them hosted on the Tilt Five system”, she says.

The Ardent Roleplay app is free to download on iOS and Android. To get early access to Ardent Roleplay on Tilt Five, players can email tiltfivebeta@ardentroleplay.com to join the beta program. Players have access to a range of High Fantasy and Call of Cthulhu genre models available now, with regular content releases. A number of preconfigured adventures are also available now in the Ardent Roleplay mobile app. Subscribe as a game master to unlock access to a continuously growing catalog. Sign up to our mailing list on the Ardent Roleplay website to stay up to date with announcements and releases.
